Subject: Recommendation Letter for Žiga Strgar

I have been working with Žiga for about a year now. He has joined our IT company 100kvadratov of which I am a co-founder, as a junior developer and as a future student of computer science. This meant he didn't have much experience, consequently we didn't expect very much from him. However he has proven not only as a great talent, but he was always very professional, organized and hard working. He is also very intelligent and can independently come up with unique and innovative solutions. He is very autonomous and doesn't need much control and guidance, which is a blessing for every team manager. He just does the job as it should be done and usually also adds a cherry on top.

During this year he has also evidently improved in knowledge and in his confidence, however he is still very humble and realistic as a person. I would recommend Žiga to every IT company that is looking for a young, professional and intelligent person who is not afraid of challenges. I truly believe he has a great career before him.
